Tea

Green Tea contains several polyphenolic compounds that give tea its characteristic Taste, Flavor and Color. The most significant polyphenols present in Green Tea are "Catechins", which are very beneficial antioxidants, and said to have the following health benefits:

Control High Blood Pressure
Restrict Blood Cholesterol
Slow the Aging Process
Reduce the Risk of Cancer

Green Tea:

Sen-Cha .....(C) Golden Yellow, (T) Well-Balanced, (F) Well-Balanced, Best for All Occasions

Kuki-Cha .... (C) Light Green, (T) Subtle Sweetness, (F) Mild, Best for Accompanying Sweets

Genmai-Cha (Green tea mixed with roasted brown rice)...(C) Yellowish Green, (T) Crispy, (f) Medium Roast, Best with and After Meal

Organic Sen-Cha by YamamotoYama

Imperial Kuding Tea (Black Herbal Tea)
This is a black bitter stalk tea. At one time the Kuding was used only as an offering to royalty. In Chinese medicine this rare and expensive tea is known to be extremely effective for lowering cholesterol and lowering high blood pressure.
